DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-4 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Buell et al. (5,931,827).

Buell discloses a disposable pull-on undergarment, as shown in figure 1, comprising a liquid pervious topsheet 24, a liquid impervious backsheet 26, and an absorbent core 28. The undergarment has front and rear waist-encircling regions 28, a crotch region 30, a waist opening and a pair of leg openings. The front and rear waist-encircling regions 28 each comprise a first elasticized zone 64 and a second elasticized zone 60/62. The first and second elasticized zones have heights that extend in the longitudinal direction of the undergarment and are coextensive, as shown in figure 1. The first and second elasticized zones are adjacent each other in the waist-encircling direction of the undergarment, as shown in figure 1. The first and second elasticized zones are extensible, as disclosed in column 9, lines 19-46. The first elasticized zone is more extensible, and therefore has a greater tensile strength, than the second elasticized zone, as disclosed in column 15, lines 1-25, and column 16, lines 38-64.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Buell et al. (5,931,827).

Buell discloses all aspects of the claimed invention but remains silent as to the exact elongation stress values of the first and second elasticized zones 28a and 28b. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to make the first elasticized zone 28a with an elongation stress of 0.2 – 2.0 N/25mm and the second elasticized zone 28b with an elongation stress of 0.1 – 0.6 N/25mm, since it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2 and 3 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Art Unit: 3761

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The prior art of record fails to disclose the claimed invention. Specifically, the closest prior art of record, Buell et al. (5,931,827), fails to disclose a plurality of elastic members spaced apart from each other and extending in the waist-encircling direction in the first and second elasticized zones, and being attached in an extended condition between the waist elastic members and the leg openings. Buell teaches first and second elasticized zones comprising a stretchable laminate and does not teach the use of a plurality of elastic members. The prior art of record therefore fails to disclose or fairly suggest the claimed invention.
